Richmond Department Heads Sworn In Town Clerk and Tax Collector Join their State Associations' Executive Boards

Last week two Richmond Department heads were sworn in as part of their state associations. Town Clerk Tracy Nelson and Tax Collector Marcy Alves both took the oath of office to serve on their respective executive boards. Nelson will serve as the Rhode Island City/Town Clerks' Association's secretary and Alves will serve as the Rhode Island Tax Collectors' Association's treasurer. "The Clerks' Association is an extremely valuable asset to local government and I am honored to be selected by my peers for this position. I am excited to get started." says Nelson. Alves added, "I am excited to serve on the Collectors' Association board. Working together as collectors benefits all Rhode Islanders and I can bring ideas back to the Town of Richmond."

Nelson and Alves join Richmond DPW director Scott Barber, Richmond Police Chief Elwood Johnson, Jr. and Richmond Town Planner Denise Stetson who serve on their respective associations' boards. Richmond EMA director Joe Arsenault also just ended his 3 years as president of the Rhode Island Emergency Management Association. "It is great to see Richmond employees serving alongside their peers in integral roles at the state level. Richmond residents should be proud of these and all Richmond town employees." added Town Administrator Rob Rock.
